

Dear colleagues,

Somalia has suffered 20 years of war. Years of fighting and an inability to deal with famine and disease have led to the deaths of up to one million people. After realization of elections and establishment of new government in 2012, there has been reconstruction and development of devastated and even collapsed country. Somalia has a population of around 10 million inhabitants. The matter of priority is removal of scarcity of food. However as you know, sustainability is not possible with help from the outside. So first of all Agriculture Livestock and Fisheries production which has a high potential should be increased in the country. This can only be possible by training of qualified employee.
